Capone for President?
Trousers for Gandhi
A World Sugar Price
Free Food is Old

By Arthur Brisbane
THE NEW YORK fish dealers pay one set of racketeers for protection from thieves and various gangsters and say they like the system. They pay for racketeer protection, and they get it. They are better off than they were before, only paying taxes for government protection.

This opens many possibilities, even a "Capone for President" possibility. We might have our modern racketeer condottieri, as Venice had her colicci. Instead of public officials that accept places on the racketeers' and bootleggers' payrolls, why not hire the racketeer direct, and do the best we can under the new kind of civilization?

The latest news about the Indian leader, Gandhi, might have added a chapter to Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus." Going to London to talk to the British powers, he will wear trousers, which he never wears in India. He may even have off his "pigtail," a long tuft of hair worn in obedience to the Hindu religion, which teaches that it may be used by friends to pull the dead man out of hell.

However, Gandhi says he will positively not wear a shirt and the king won't see him wearing silk knee breeches. He says, "I am ugly enough without such foppishness."

We all have our ideas about how to dress. When Sir Augustus Harris, boss of London's Drury Lane Theater, asked George Bernard Shaw, then a young man, to come to the opera in evening clothes, Shaw took off his suit of brown flannel, and put on a dress suit, but wore his brown flannel Jaeger shirt with the dress suit.

Harris said: "Please go back to the Jaeger ensemble. I like it better."

At a conference in Paris, following an all-night session, seven nations agreed on uniform world prices for sugar. Beet and cane growers are included in the arrangement.

The world would be benefited to great an industry were stabilized on a fair basis. Formerly for the stabilizers, sugar is not yet important as a factor in sugar production, but the potential best sugar territory is great.

When prosperity and jobs are plentiful, what is commonly known as "radicalism" goes to sleep. Lowered wages and many idle bring radicalism back to waking activity.

In New York the I. W. O. demand "free food." It is cheaper and safer, temporarily, to give free food than to give it, to say nothing of the teachings of Christianity, by which we are supposed to be influenced.

But free food as a permanent institution would be dangerous. The Romans demanded it, and got it, and you know what happened there.

A little more life and hope in Wall Street yesterday. The market was "quietly cheerful." Unfilled orders of the big steel company increased 30,136 tons in March, whereas they decreased 167,167 in February.

Railroad stocks were feeling better. Uncle Sam's stock of gold last Wednesday totalled $4,700,000, four millions higher than ever before. That's doing well when you consider that the world's total monetary gold supply is less than eleven billions.

It isn't what you would call a husky Wall Street, reminding you of a lady convulsed with coughing and coughing gently as they move her out into the sunshine.

Charles W. A. Scott has lowered, by nine hours, the time from England to Australia. Miss Elinor Smith, the courageous girl who recently became unconscious in her airplane and dropped 15,000 feet, has gone up again after the altitude record. This time she appears to have brought it down, with a record of 32,000 feet.

WHO WILL TRY HATHAWAY, MASSACHUSETTS OR R. I.?

Russell Case Now Most Complex in History of New England
By W. H. BROOKS

Verna Russell is dead and buried.

Elliott R. Hathaway is in jail on a murder charge. A new chapter in American criminology, more complex, more involved, more open to fantastic conjecture than any preceding it, is being written.

A murder case without precedent in many features in modern criminal annals is under investigation by two states, both of which, nearly three weeks following perpetration of the crime, lack conclusive evidence of jurisdiction.

LIFE IS AT STAKE
In one state, death in the electric chair is the penalty for first degree murder; electrocution made mandatory by law.

In the other state, the maximum penalty is life imprisonment.

M'LYMAN TO BASE CASE ON NEW GAME STORY

Says Hathaway Told Pal He Was in Rhode Island With Girl All the Evening

By JAMES J. SMITH

Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman of Rhode Island admitted today that his contention that Verna Russell was slain in that State was based on the story told by her alleged killer, Elliott Hathaway, to his friend, Vernon Galvin.

McLyman, in making this statement, revealed a highlight in Galvin's story, which until now has been its entirety a closely-guarded secret.

This highlight is that the murder car was in Rhode Island from about 8:30 on the night of the crime until after Miss Russell was dead—Hathaway is to be believed.

Other developments today were:

- 1—McLyman said the defense attorneys had no other evidence of the girl's death.
- 2—He hopes that microscopic inspection of Galvin's shirt will uphold his belief the murder was committed in Hathaway's automobile.
- 3—His decision that he will not wait any longer for the question of jurisdiction to be settled, but will go ahead in the Rhode Island courts.
- 4—A Taurus motor, which said Hathaway spun in her for lodging while in flight, before the body was discovered.
- 5—Dr. George R. Magrath of Boston began study here of all recent evidence to decide if possible it shows state the pretty student nurse was killed.

RELIES ON GALVIN

McLyman's admission of the foundation of his claim, that the murder was in his state, confirms what the Boston Evening American told its readers five days ago. His statement today was:

"According to the story given me by Vernon Galvin, Hathaway and the girl were in Rhode Island."

There was a killing. The body of Verna Russell, Fall River nurse, was found in a lonely lane, in Tiverton, R. I. Elliott R. Hathaway, son of Louis E. Hathaway, state representative, was missing. He finally surrendered to Rhode Island officials. Since the day of his surrender a search for evidence has been on in Rhode Island. The battle of placing the killing of Verna Russell in Rhode Island has been in charge of Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman. In Massachusetts, Dist. Atty.-Gen. William C. Crossley is heading the forces that are sure that the nurse was killed within the boundaries of the Bay State.

MAN IS SHOT IN RUM CHASE

Providence, April 11—One alleged rum-runner was shot and two companions were in custody of coast guards this morning after chase off Sakonnet Point, in which the Coast Guards fired 25 shots and the rum-runners' boat was blown up.

The explosion, which is believed to have been caused by a match dropped into the gasoline tank, two other men were aboard, who swam ashore and escaped.

Police Superintendent Promises Jap Prince and Bride Protection on Visit Here

The Imperial Highnesses Prince and Princess Takamatsu, of Japan, will be assured of adequate protection from violence or insult by Reds when they arrive in Boston April 23, Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley declared today.

The prince and his bride, brother and sister-in-law of the Emperor Hirohito, were greeted on their arrival in New York yesterday with an outburst of catcalls from Red agitators which marred the propriety of their civil welcome.

"I can assure the royal couple of perfect security," Boston's Red-frenzied hitler lessons from the police department in the Common and they're not anxious for further clashes. The prince and princess will be feted for four days in Boston before leaving on a tour of the United States and Canada as a part of their two-year world honeymoon trip.

Jap Prince and Bride Welcomed to New York

New York, April 11 (AP)—Rugle flourish, military pomp and waving crowds bid Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan an official welcome at the City Hall today as they awaited the royal party when it arrived at noon via the mayor and his official welcoming committee headed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University.

The prince and princess started their first day in this country with a visit to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Afterward they were out and strolled in Central Park by 20 United States cavalrymen and a squadron of mounted police.

More than 4000 persons waited outside the City Hall. Banners and murals from Brooklyn Navy Yard formed a guard of honor. Army and police bands played the Japanese and American national anthems as the royal couple entered.

ACTION OF G.O.P. CLUB DEFENDED

Judson Hannigan, president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, today defended the action of the club in inviting Col. Henry W. Anderson of the Wickersham commission to address it at a dinner to be held April 15 at the Copeland Hotel.

Replying to the criticism of the club's action, Hannigan said that the club is promoting discord and "doing for the Republican party what Backus is doing to the Democratic party," Hannigan said.

"The Republican Club today finds the party in this State in a situation somewhat analogous to that which existed 40 years ago when it was founded.

"We have the slightest desire to promote discord, but we are more concerned with the maintenance of the finest principles of government and with honestly facing great issues in order that we may obtain the speediest truth as to these issues, than we are in maintaining harmony when it is inconsonant, dull and destructive."

Hannigan said the dinner is called primarily to hear from a member of President Hoover's own commission the result of an investigation which that commission made for the chief of the Republican party and to hear from this distinguished member his suggestion, concurred in by a majority of the commission, for remedying a great defect in the law.

"It is a dinner which should receive active support of the whole as well as the dry support of the support of all who find in the Republican party the highest representation of service to the people of this country."

METHODISTS TO AID REDS

Springfield, April 11—Pledge of its support to the Civil Liberties Union in defending the civil rights of those leaders arrested in the recent Lawrence strike was guaranteed by the social service committee of the New England Methodist conference at a meeting in connection with the conference annual sessions here.

The committee further recommended that the pastors of Lawrence open their doors to a mass meeting of the Civil Liberties Union. The resolutions were passed after the committee had listened to the Rev. Robert Bakeman of the Civil Liberties Union and to Miss Edith Berkman.

The first instance of lack of harmony between co-operating Methodist boards cropped up when the conference passed a unanimous vote in favor of the establishment of a home for aged Methodists.

Lawrence, April 11 (AP)—The Rev. G. Higgins, pastor of the Parker Street Methodist Episcopal Church, said today that he was not in sympathy with a suggestion that his church be used in defense of the leaders of the recent textile strike here.

The suggestion was made yesterday at the conference of Methodist churches at Springfield that the church open its doors for a mass meeting for the defense of the civil rights of strike leaders.

As far as my position is concerned," the Rev. Higgins said, "I will not open my church without a vote of officials for it is not a propaganda soap-bath—it is a place of worship."

MRS. PEABODY DRY REPORT TO HOOVER

Woman's National Law Enforcement Committee Plays the Wickersham Report

Washington, April 11 (INS)—Strict enforcement of dry laws was recommended to President Hoover today in a report submitted by a commission of the Women's National Committee of Law Enforcement headed by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, militant prohibitionist who deserted Massachusetts when it voted for repeal.

The document held the Eighteenth Amendment as an all-American plan, the result of centuries of development, and the only method by which the United States could ever be delivered of the liquor traffic. It vigorously opposed modification or revision.

Mrs. Peabody said the report was based on studies of 21 phases of the prohibition question and a thorough analysis of the Wickersham report.

The report placed the women's group on record as opposed to any means of curbing the liquor evil other than the old-fashioned way of the present laws. Mrs. Peabody explained the report was supported by an affiliation of organizations embracing 12,000,000 women members, and warned their views would be felt at the polls in the presidential election in 1932.

"We are opposed to the entrance into the liquor business of federal or State governments," the report said. "We are opposed to modification. We are opposed to repeal. We are opposed to re-education of the Eighteenth Amendment to the people through convention or through referendum."

Chief obstacles to proper enforcement of present laws, the report found, are due to an "alliance of corrupt politics and the liquor interests." This condition was not inaugurated by the Eighteenth Amendment, "but a reason for its adoption."

"Prohibition is in many ways a success, the report held. "Large sections of the country like law, law well enforced as any other law," declared the document. "We find considerable data attesting the economic gains of prohibition and an almost surprising consensus of opinion among economists, statisticians, social workers and industrialists supporting the claim that with all deductions made for other contributing factors, prohibition made for the economic benefits enjoyed by the American people during the past decade."

LISBON UNDER ARMED GUARD

Lisbon, April 11 (AP)—Lisbon awoke today to find itself in the iron grip of the military. During the night heavy details of soldiers were posted in all public squares and strategic points and today armored cars patrolled the streets, rifles and machine guns blinding from ugly perches.

Theaters were closed and audiences sent home toward the close of performances last night and all cafes and music halls closed to remain open all night were shut up summarily.

The patrol boat picked up the drifting boats, which contained stores of liquor, and placed a man aboard the motorboat.

As the flotilla started for the coast guard station, a burst of flame followed by an explosion broke from the engine room of the speedboat, hurling the occupants into the water and sinking the boat.

The patrol boat rescued the crew and proceeded through heavy seas toward the station. A mile off Belem Point the boats with the liquor cargo went awash and sank.

Before the boats sank the coast guards dragged three cases of the liquor aboard their boat to be used as evidence at the arraignment of the prisoners.

Bridges Massey, the wounded man, Warren Moser of Tiverton and another man who has so far refused to give him name, are being held for arraignment before United States Commissioner Archibald Mathewson at Providence.

Henry Days of Riverside Drive, Tiverton, is listed in government records of the motorboat, which bore the registration number 58-5.

Coffey-Humber Cancer Treatment Lashed by Mayo

San Francisco, Cal., April 11 (U.S.)—The Coffey-Humber cancer treatment at present is highly commensurate and wonderful research.

Charles H. Mayo, one of the internationally famous brothers of Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., said this comment after a visit to the cancer clinic conducted here by Doctors Walter Coffey and John Humber, originators of the treatment bearing their names.

Dr. Mayo said the treatment was not estimated for at least 100 cases, but he said it was "wonderful."

CLEARING HOUSE FOR STOLEN BONDS IS SOUGHT IN BOSTON

JEWELER TELLS COURT ABOUT $18,000 DEAL

Inspector Shows How Salem Trust Securities Were Traced to New York

Possibility of the existence of a clearing house for stolen bonds in Boston was being investigated today after a warrant was sought in Municipal Court charging a Boston jeweler with receiving stolen bonds valued at $18,000.

At the same time New York authorities sought the co-operation of Boston police in tracing a similar transaction involving $22,000 worth of bonds stolen in New York.

Inspector Mark Morrison, who appeared before Judge Charles T. Carr to ask the issuance of the warrant, declared the mystery of the disposition of 18 $1000 bonds stolen in 1928 from the Salem Trust Co. had been solved by the discovery of seven of the stolen securities in New York banks.

BONDS TRACED

The bonds, at present owned by a California power company, were traced back to a Boston bank, thence to the jeweler, who, officials of the Boston institution said, offered them as security for a loan in August of 1928, three months after they were stolen.

Inspector Morrison said the jeweler, official of the bank said, the bonds were sold at the jeweler's instructions.

In court this morning the jeweler disclaimed any knowledge of the bonds' criminal background. He said a man known only to him as George Styles of Jacksonville, Fla., had presented them in exchange for jewelry at his store, and he had then sold them through the usual channels.

Similar case in N. Y.

"While working with New York police on this case," Inspector Morrison said, "I encountered a parallel case in which $7,000 worth of bonds, stolen from E. B. Smith Co. of New York, resurfaced in Boston where, as in this case, they were supposed to have been offered in payment for jewelry. There is a marked similarity in the two cases which points to the existence of a ring of bond thieves operating with Boston as a clearing house."

The jeweler told the court the $18,000 transaction was recorded on the books of a corporation of which he was the head at that time, and asked a continuance until Tuesday to procure the books from the receivers of the company, now default.

Judge Carr acceded to his request, and postponed the hearing for the warrant until Tuesday.

DOG, BELIEVED MAD, BITES 3

Three children were bitten by a dog believed to be mad, in the Maplewood section of Malden today and many others received iron clothing before the animal was captured by the police.

The victims are Alvin T. Olson, 11, of Fremont st., bitten on the right knee; Nathaniel C. Wright, 10, of Fremont st., bitten on the right arm; and Walter Perkins, 9, of Columbia st., bitten on the right wrist.

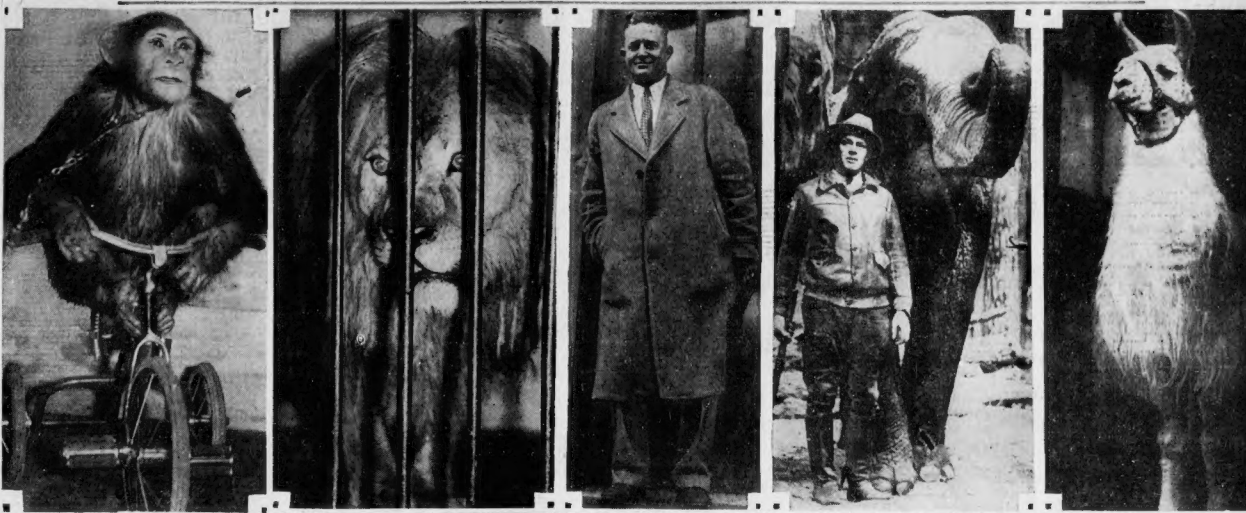

The children's wounds were cauterized by Dr. M. H. Fisher, and if it is discovered the dog is suffering from rabies they will undergo the Pasteur treatment.

The dog, a Boston terrier, appeared as the children were playing and romped among them, apparently friendly. When they chased him, however, he turned and struck right and left with teeth bared.

An alarm to police headquarters called a squad, who captured the dog in Western style, by lassoing him. He was turned over to Dr. William M. Simpson, a veterinarian, for examination.

The Malden board of health is conducting an examination to determine if any other children were bitten.

MISS WINSLOW TO WED IN JUNE

Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Cameron McRae Winslow of Commonwealth ave. today announced the engagement of their daughter, Theodora Marie, to Augustus L. Noel of New York. Noel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Noel.

Miss Winslow is a graduate of the Winsor School. For the past few years she has been an art student in New York.

She is also an actress of note, and at one time, with her sister, Emilia, appeared with a professional company.

Noel is an architect, a member of the New York firm of Noel & Miller. He was educated at the Beaux Arts in Paris.

During the war he served with the M. I. T. naval aviation unit. The wedding is expected to take place in Newport in June.

'TIGER' ADMITS ROW WITH WIFE

Reno, Nev., April 11 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion boxer, arrived in Reno today and admitted there had been "a scrap" between him and his wife, Estelle Taylor, of the films.

But he said he came here for a rest and not to institute divorce proceedings although there was a possibility his married affairs might reach the courts.

"Estelle and I have had a scrap, but it was not a serious one, and there is always a chance of a reconciliation," he said. "I came here with the idea of taking a rest and will spend much of my time fishing and hunting."

Although Dempsey said his matrimonial difficulties were not serious, he said he did not know what his wife might do.

"Honestly, I had no thought of a divorce suit until it was started in the newspapers. Women of the films are just as temperamental as puppets and our little differences may be patched up and again it may not. If the time comes that there must be a divorce, I'll not hesitate to talk about it. To try and talk now only serves to make the situation worse."

EAKER HOPS ON RECORD FLIGHT

Burbank, Cal., April 11 (AP)—Capt. Ira C. Eaker, United States Army Air Corps test pilot, streaked off in a low wing, open cockpit monoplane, here at 3:39 a. m. (P. S.T.) today for New York in quest of a new transcontinental speed record.

It was a beautiful takeoff, despite the 300 gallons of gasoline aboard. Eaker used only about half the 300-foot runway to leave the ground. Then he roared off into the darkness for Wichita, Kan., his only scheduled stop.

Taking with him an apple, an orange, some milk, chewing gum and a handful of cigars, Eaker remarked, "I could get along with out gas, maybe but, but no cigars."

The flier hoped to reach New York in 11 hours or less, including 20 minutes for refueling at Wichita. He expected to reach Wichita in about five hours. He hoped to average 215 to 220 miles per hour.

YALE DEDICATES NEW LIBRARY

New Haven, Ct., April 11 (AP)—The Sterling Memorial Library at Yale University, gothic in architecture and monumental in its dimensions and capacity, will be dedicated today in the presence of a notable gathering.

The library cost in excess of $5,000,000 and is a memorial to John W. Sterling, Yale, '61.

The library was designed to give facilities for the proper care of Yale's priceless collections of books, for the use of books accumulated during the past two and a quarter centuries, and to provide for the needs of the university in the new hundred years.

The main reading room will hold 15,000 books in all fields of knowledge. The book tower already houses more than 1,500,000 volumes and its capacity is $2,000,000. The reserved book room will hold from 25,000 to 40,000 volumes for general class use, and Lincolnton and Freshman-Unity room will have upward of 30,000 books for general reading.

BOSTON'S VERY YOUNGEST generation will join with the Junior League Players in devoting their attention to "The Prince's Secret," which is the week of the month. This is the spring offering of that energetic dramatic group at the Peabody Playhouse. The play will follow the same pattern giving three performances for the settlement children on the afternoon of April 29, 30 and May 1. The play will have two opportunities, the morning and afternoon on May 2 to the way the play did at the court of Prince Regent in Spain. The stage sets and costumes will be regal and picturesque.

SCENERY IS BEING completed by the direction of Mrs. Henry Jackson, Jr., who as players' chairman directs the production. Everyone is working on the costumes. Mrs. Hamilton O'Connell, 24, is managing this detail with the assistance of Mrs. J. Timothy Walker and Miss Susan Stratton. Miss Stratton is vice-chairman of the Junior League Players. Miss Jane McGraw is secretary and Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Jr. is treasurer. The ticket chairman is Miss Constance. The cooperation of Miss Catherine Roberts, Cynthia Waters has charge of the properties and Mrs. Robert Cushing Taylor will send out the publicity.

About People You Know in Boston Stores

By FRANCES L. BAIRD

"If you feel homesick for America in Japan, go to a department store. There you will see everything you have in American department stores," writes Miss Yoshiko Mori, who, as a student of the Prince School of Store Service Education last year, frequently modeled kimono and sash at Filene's.

In a letter to Mrs. Prince, Miss Mori describes the outward similarity but inward difference between stores in America and Japan. "Customers are mostly men, who are offended if a salesgirl talks to them before they speak," she said. "You will never hear 'May I help you?' even in Japan. Salesgirls will be rude and forward if they talk on unnecessary things. Thousands of speaking points are of no avail if you are not supposed to speak except the information called for."

Japanese customers prefer to shop either on the first floor or the top floor of the building, using the elevator for a long time, she added.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Following the annual meeting of stockholders of Lamson & Hubbard Corp., the re-election of the following board of directors was announced: Theophilus Schneider, D. Demarest, F. J. Price, M. C. O'Connell, D. D. P. Cole and R. C. Emery.

The board, in turn, re-elected officers: F. J. Price, chairman; Theophilus Schneider, president; G. H. Remanet, vice-president; and treasurer, and J. Price, secretary. Mr. Fox will, but is expected back at his desk in about six weeks.

APPOINTED BUYER

Cub Women at Morgan Memorial

By NANCY BREWSTER

Officials of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs attended the Presidents' Day celebration of the Women's Auxiliary at Morgan Memorial and were personally conducted through the various departments of the Memorial's industrial plant by the auxiliary president, Mrs. C. J. Cook.

Mrs. Frank P. Bennett, first vice-president of the State Federation; Mrs. Frederick Davis, treasurer; Mrs. William J. McDonald, general district director; Mrs. William D. Hurlbut, president of the Boston City Federation; Mrs. David A. Wentcott, first vice-president of the Boston City Federation; Mrs. D. A. Harrington, State president of the New England Council of Federated Churches of Women's Clubs; as well as a number of other presidents and federated clubs and church societies were present.

Dr. Edgar Hahn, superintendent of Morgan Memorial, told the women about the work of the plant, with special stress on the day nursery and night school, the chief interests of the auxiliary.

Rabbi Harry Levi was re-elected president of the Little Theatre of Temple Israel at its annual meeting of the group. Other officers include Mrs. David M. Simon, first vice-president; Mrs. Hyman Freedman, second vice-president; Mrs. Julian Rogers, third vice-president; Miss Stella Obit, secretary; Mrs. Louis Finkel, treasurer; and Mrs. Jessie White, general secretary.

Mrs. Bessie White, first prize winner of the contest, was a bridge and act playing portraying some phase of Jewish life. Her play, "The Family," was 25. Other winners: Mrs. Fannie Barnett of Roxbury, second prize; Mrs. M. H. Houghton, Mrs. Rose Spence of Brookline, Mrs. A. H. Houghton, Mrs. Worcester, Miss Anna Sabar of Haverhill and Mrs. Anna C. Charn of Brookline.

A similar contest is to be held, with the closing dates of May 15, 1932.

Light Jacket Contrast to Dark Skirt

"HALF AND HALF" seems to be Fashion's recipe for the two-color costume. Seen first at the Paris openings its popularity has increased until now every smart woman's wardrobe contains at least one light jacket-dark skirt ensemble. It's a very practical idea, too, and carries over into the street. Dark skirt, light jacket, or a combination of the two. In street costumes it is particularly effective when worn with dark accessories.

Durham taking the mound for the Sox.

The gang may have been a bit skeptical about the ability of the highly-touted trial newcomers before reaching the park, but after watching Worthington, Schumacher and Shelly knock over balls over the distant barriers in batting practice, it became convinced that these newcomers are "there" and installed the National League entry as a 5 to 1 favorite to win.

SOX OUT TO WIN

This didn't worry Manager Collins and his Sox in the least, however. They were confident that their great pitching staff could stop the Wigwam sluggers.

That the result of the contest wouldn't mean a thing, cut no ice with the customers. They knew that they would see a ball game for which each side would fight as though a pennant depended upon it, and that being all they were interested in, they displayed as much enthusiasm as a world's series gathering.

Red Worthington was watched more closely than any other player on the Sox, for, judging from his spring record to date, he's the greatest slugger to represent the Hub since Babe Ruth left these parts.

He faced some of the greatest pitchers in the majors during the past month and some of them could stop him, as the batting average of approximately .200 which he carries into today's contest proves. It is too much to expect that he will keep clicking the bats as in this record-breaking pace but his .276 mark at Rochester in the International League indicates that he is something more than a flake.

In the pan and hints that he may actually be one of those super stars who can make a pennant contender of a second division club.

So brilliant has he been, in fact, that very little has been written in praise of Schumacher, Shelly and Wilson, but each of this trio was a first-class ball player and the Sox, to strengthen the Tribe considerably, both at bat and field, in the opening campaign.

Two Newcomers in Sox Lineup

Manager Collins waited until to meet the last minute to choose his lineup and when he finally made up his mind he inserted the names of two rookies in the line-up, Al Van Camp from Des Moines, Iowa, to start in left field, and the other is Allie Marquardt, Toledo farm boy when he isn't performing fielding miracles in the shortstop.

Van Camp came to the club as an outfielder, but Collins while managing at Des Moines learned that he was a good hitter and he had to play the initial sack and was an asset to the team.

Harvard plays Bowdoin College nine at Soldiers Field today.

The Crimson nine opened its season on Wednesday, turning back the Northeastern University Blue-Whites by the one-sided margin of 20 to 0. But the Pine Tree States coming down from Brunswick today will prove no such easy pickings for the Conibetians. It will be the first game of the year for the invaders.

Charles Devane, Harvard pitcher, who worked three innings against the Northeasterns on Wednesday, will start against Bowdoin.
